DALLAS--(BUSINESS WIRE) -- Anthelio Healthcare Solutions, the largest independent provider of technology and services to hospitals, physician practice groups and other healthcare providers announced the appointment of Andrew Pryor as Chief Human Resources Officer. Previously, Andrew was Vice President of Human Resources for BerylHealth, a service provider for hospitals, healthcare systems and physician practices. He has over 25 years of experience in the field of Human Resources. "Andrew has a proven track record of success in employee engagement and career development. This type of experience is critical to utilizing the platform of HR to help ensure that we focus on recruiting world-class talent and nurturing a highly creative, collaborative and productive global culture," said Asif Ahmad, CEO of Anthelio.

In 2012, Andrew co-authored the book SMILE GUIDE – Employee Perspectives on Culture, Loyalty and Profit. Having served as Senior Business Partner to Bell Helicopter's Engineering Division where he was responsible for the HR team providing support services to 2,600 Aero-Space Engineers will be critical to strengthening business partner relationships throughout Anthelio. He also worked for ten years at Nokia Mobile Phones serving as the Senior Human Resource Manager for five thousand employees engaged in the global manufacturing and distribution of mobile phones. After graduating from The University of Texas at Arlington, Andrew was named as a White House Intern by President George H. W. Bush.

"I am extremely honored to be joining Anthelio and its commitment to Operational Prowess, Innovation and Service Excellence in healthcare. As the company continues to build a unified global team, I am confident the HR strategies and platforms we put in place will facilitate growth and employee engagement," said Andrew Pryor.

Andrew was instrumental in helping to design resource strategies that resulted in his former company being named 2nd best company to work for in America, top 100 Company in Healthcare, and top 25 employer. "We are excited to have Andrew join Anthelio, his ability to connect with individuals at all levels of the organization will be valuable to our success," said Asif Ahmad.
