Anthelio Earns Three Certifications for its Offshore Health Information Management (HIM) Processes

Dallas, Texas, October 31, 2013 — Anthelio Healthcare Solutions, the largest independent provider of technology and services to hospitals, physician practice groups and other healthcare providers today announced that it has achieved International Organization for Standardization (ISO) certifications for Quality Management System (ISO 9001:2005); Information Security Management System with compliance (ISO 27001:2005) and Information Technology Service Management System (ISO 20000:2011) for its continual maintenance of standards and processes in the offshore HIM division. The certifications confirm that the performance records of Anthelio's offshore HIM department is exceeding the norms prescribed in the customer Service Level Agreements accuracy of over 95 percent.

"Our dedicated offshore coding team continues to exceed our clients expectations," said Asif Ahmad, Anthelio's CEO. "Achieving readiness for ICD-10 is a key concern in the healthcare industry. Further, many HIM executives are struggling to keep up with the increasing coding demands. Having certified IT systems that are HIPAA compliant allows us meet the industry demands."

The audit was conducted by British Standards Institution (BSI), a global independent business services organization and a founding member of the ISO. The audit verified and concluded that Anthelio sets the standard for best practices through its:

- Rigorous qualification procedure for hiring certified coders having science/paramedical background and 90 percent score in qualifying exam
- On the job training for specialized coding services; coders are placed on 100 percent audit until they reach a minimum of 95 percent accuracy and productivity
- Continuous compliance to the standard, adherence to the documented processes, sharing of dashboard information with the management and the client at regular intervals
- Continual service improvements as per client's feedback based on trend analysis

"Our global remote coding team delivers seamless support to our healthcare providers. These certifications provide impartial validation that our international processes and services help to provide optimal patient care through complete documentation and accurate coding services," said Asif Ahmad.
