DALLAS, TX, October 19, 2011 – Anthelio, the leading independent provider of comprehensive health-care information technology (“IT”) services and business process solutions for hospitals and other healthcare providers, today announced its sponsorship of the second annual Community Hospital 100 executive management conference being held October 23-25, 2011 at the Pinehurst Resort in North Carolina.

Richard S. Garnick, Chairman & CEO of Anthelio, and Rick Kneipper, Chief Strategy and Innovation Officer of Anthelio, will each moderate a panel discussion among community hospital executives entitled “Value Creation: Raising Quality While Lowering Costs.”

At the conference, Anthelio will also release results from an original survey on the financial health of community and rural hospitals. The survey provides insights into the financial health of hospitals and how this impacts their ability to implement new quality and performance enhancement initiatives. The results will be shared and discussed with attendees at the Community Hospital 100 annual conference and all respondents who request copies.

“Community hospitals face unprecedented technology and operational challenges that threaten to negatively impact patient care by misdirecting limited resources,” said Mr. Kneipper. “As an industry, we need to bring new ideas to light that will help community healthcare providers streamline operations and make better use of technology to allow them to refocus priorities to maximize patient care, while improving their top-line and bottom-line financial results in the process.”

The Community Hospital 100 conference will include 13 educational sessions, 14 roundtables and a two hour MBA workshop to help community hospital leaders cross the divide between today’s current system challenges and the expected clinical and payment models of the future. The full agenda and educational program can be viewed at communityhospital100.com.

CEO panelists and presenters will tackle issues from clinical integration to hospital-physician alignment and accountable care preparation. The educational program also features keynote addresses from pioneering thought-leaders such as Clayton Christensen, Joe Tye, and Kenneth Cohn, who will offer insights on innovating the community hospital model, building hospital culture and physician alignment.

Limited to just 100 hospitals, the conference hosts a national group of community hospital and system senior-level executives – CEOs, Presidents, Administrators, CFOs, COOs, CNOs and CMOs from hospitals with 300 or fewer beds.
